Celebrity Speaker Barry Greer to speak September 25. Barry Greer is called The Conductor. He has attended every men's basketball home game for more than 20 years. His task, keeping the Spartan Brass on beat. His father, Lee Greer, started taking Barry to the games when Barry was only four years old. When Barry was six he was introduced to the band director Bruce Madden and for one unsupervised moment Barry took the opportunity to lead the band. Ever since his parents take him to the games where Barry dresses like the Spartan Brass members and mimics the conducting to the delight of band members and game fans alike. Since Down's syndrome keeps Barry from speaking clearly Barry's father Lee will help tell the story. Come, hear, and be inspired!

Aktion Club Showcase

The Aktion Club of Lenawee County gathers for their club service. Members of the club meet at Hope Community Center in Adrian Michigan where they tend to the gardens raising vegetables for members and the local food bank.

Tim, the club artist, shows off one of his paintings. When sold the monies will support the Aktion Club's service projects.

Veronica sits by her sewing machine; club members make quilts for the Family Life Center at Mott Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Agency advisor Dillon Miller stands in front quilt he made.

Members of the Capitol City Aktion Club in Lansing place American flags on the graves of war veterans at St. Joe Cemetery in Lansing. The Capitol City club is sponsored by the Delta Township Kiwanis Club.

Full Circle Aktion Club held their Charter Ceremony on May 21. Standing next to the Aktion Club banner is Kiwanis advisor Scott Virgo, alongside is Gordon Schleicher, Aktion Club District Administrator. Sponsoring this Aktion Club are members of the Ypsilanti Kiwanis Club with their club president Jeff Lawther in the back row left.
